HUMANE SOCIETY MEETS TONIGHT

Annual Election of Officers to Be Held in Chamber of Commerce.

The annual meeting of the El Paso Humane society will be held this evening in the chamber of commerce to elect officers and prepare for the work of the year. All members and any others interested in the humane work of the city are expected to be present. The society wishes to start a campaign in the interest of dogs, horses and other animals that are always made to suffer with the advent of hot weather, and the members expect to see all lovers of animals present at the meeting to help start the work.

MANY CATTLE IMPORTED FROM MEXICO THIS YEAR.

The shipment of cattle from Mexico for the spring and summer of 1916 is estimated at $6,000 head by F. G. Mentzer, agent in El Paso for the National Railways of Mexico. Mr. Mentzer also reports that the importation of American goods into Mexico is greater than in former years.

REMANDED TO JAIL.

On habeas corpus proceedings in the 41st district court Saturday, John Dodge, charged with burglary, was remanded to the county jail, pending a preliminary hearing.

SHIPPERS CARELESS IN MANY CASES IN PREPARING PACKAGES

Western Railway Weighing Association Issues a Statement and Some Suggestions to Them.

The Western Railway Weighing association and inspection bureau has issued a circular to shippers calling attention to many errors that occur in marking packages for shipment, and suggests more care by shippers to avoid overcharges.

"It is our observation," says the warning, "that these overcharges, delays, etc., are due in a great measure to improper and incomplete descriptions of articles shipped. We believe that if shippers will co-operate with the carriers and interest themselves in this subject to the extent of having their shipping tickets fully and clearly describe the articles shipped so that there will be no doubt as to the classification and rating that is properly applicable, these annoyances will be reduced to a minimum."

As serving to illustrate the point, the association quotes below a few examples of improper or incomplete descriptions:

"A shipping ticket reading, '10 bales of bags,' is indefinite, as the classification provides for: Bags, burlap, gunny or jute in bales or bundles, third class; bags, cotton, cotton seed, grain or salt in bales or trusses, second class; bags, clayed, in bales or bundles, third class. 'A shipping ticket reading, 'five boxes of brushes,' is not sufficiently specific, as the rating on brushes, N. O. S., is, and hair in boxes, is first class; on brushes, vegetable fibre, N. O. S., in boxes, second class.

Cigars, Candy, Coffee.
"Under cigars, the rating, when strapped, corded and sealed, is first class; when not strapped, corded and sealed, double first class. Shipping tickets should specifically state when the packages are strapped, corded and sealed."

"Under candy, it will be found that the rating on certain style packages, where the invoice valuation does not exceed 10 cents per pound, is third class, and where the invoice valuation exceeds 10 cents per pound, or where the invoice value is not stated, the rating is first class. It is important, therefore, where the invoice value is 10 cents per pound or less, it should be so stated in the shipping ticket."

"A shipping ticket reading, 'five racks of coffee,' is not sufficiently definite to enable the bill clerk to rate it, as coffee, green, in sacks, takes fourth class; while coffee, roasted or ground, in sacks, takes third class. The shipping ticket should state specifically whether the coffee is green or roasted."

Crockery Ratings.
Under the heading of "crockery," in the western classification, there are various ratings.

"China ware and porcelain ware, in boxes, barrels, casks, hogheads or kegs, takes first class, when no valuation is specified. When the invoice value does not exceed $20 per 100 pounds for the gross weight of the package, and when the package does not contain any china ware or porcelain ware exceeding in value $20 per 100 pounds, and so receipted for, in boxes, barrels, tins or kegs, second class; in casks or hogheads, third class.

"Earthenware, queensware and stoneware, as described under the heading of 'crockery' and the rating depends upon the character of the package. Care should therefore be exercised in properly describing shipments coming under this heading."

"Castings, N. O. S., (as from mold, except being cleaned and drilled with bolt holes and dipped to preserve from rust, not machine finished), in boxes, barrels or casks, fourth class; while castings, machine finished, in boxes, take second class. There are also other castings provided for in the classification at different ratings. The shipping ticket should plainly describe the kind of casting."

Hardware, Sugar, Leather.
"Hardware, N. O. S., in packages, takes second class, but the term, 'hardware,' should not be used where the article shipped is otherwise provided for in the classification. For example, bolts are provided for at fourth class when in boxes, barrels or kegs; and hinges, gate or strapped, at third class; spring hinges, second class.

"Sugar, N. O. S., in boxes, barrels or pallets with tight covers, takes fourth class; also, in sacks or bags, other than paper, takes fourth class; while maple or lemon sugar, in bags, boxes, casks or pallets with tight covers, second class. Shipping tickets should clearly show what kind of sugar is being shipped."

"Under the heading of 'leather,' we have various kinds and descriptions of leather and in various kinds of packages. Shipping tickets should clearly define the kind of leather and in what style of package."

Building Material.
"Window sash glazed with common window glass, is third class, but when glazed with plate glass the rating is the same as plate glass. The shipping ticket should therefore state whether the glazing is with plate or common window glass."

"Nails, wire, N. O. S., in standard kegs are taken at an estimated weight of 108 pounds per keg at fourth class, while nails, wire, cement coated, are taken at actual weight, fourth class. The shipping tickets should specify just what kind of nails are being shipped."

"Nuts, edible, N. O. S., in boxes or

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many El Paso Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of El Paso citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in El Paso by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Blanche Cleaver, 1223 E. Overland street, El Paso, Texas, says: "For eight years I was subject to attacks of kidney trouble. If I took cold, it invariably settled in my kidneys and it caused a dull ache in my back and right hip. There was also a soreness across my loins and I had chills. The kidney secretions were scanty and distressing in passage and caused me much annoyance. About a year ago my complaint became worse. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me and procuring a box at Kelly & Pollard's drug store, I began their use. They strengthened my kidneys and proved of benefit in every way."

barrels, take second class. Nut kernels or nut meats take first class.

"Sausage, smoked or dried, in boxes or barrels, takes third class. Sausage, fresh, in boxes or in pads, crated, also sausage, N. O. S., takes second class; therefore, if a shipping ticket reads two boxes of sausages, it would be rated at second class.

Style of Package Considered.
"It should also be noted that under the terms of the classification the style of package, whether boxes, or crates or bundles, very often affects the rating, and the shipping ticket should plainly indicate the kind of package in all cases."

The above are only a few of the many cases that might be cited, but we believe are sufficient to demonstrate the necessity of shippers, or their shipping clerks, making a study of and thoroughly posting themselves as to the terms and requirements of the classification and tariffs.

GREAT WORTH OF THE RAILROADS

Member of Interstate Commerce Commission, Once Conductor, Talks.

Worcester, Mass., April 4.—Addressing the immense gathering of railroad men Sunday, hundreds of them representing the powerful organization of which he was once the head, Edgar E. Clark, the railroad conductor who became a member of the interstate commerce commission, bespoke a message of conservatism.

Commissioner Clark told the men of the brotherhoods what an important public service they were performing in operating the railroads of the United States. The development of those brotherhoods, he said, had come only through fraternal unity and co-operation.

"It has come," he said, "by having a well considered and sound policy and adhering to it; by applying to every effort and desire the test—'Is this Right?'—by withholding every effort and resisting every desire that would not stand that test."

Course of Conservatism.
"It has come by pursuing a course of conservatism which avoided on the one hand that conservatism, which beyond a certain point means stagnation, and on the other hand that conservatism which, beyond a certain point, means cowardice."

"And the message I wish to bear to you is that the policy that has brought to you so much of material welfare and contributed to the relations which bring about such gatherings as this in which the president of the United States and the presidents of the railroads on which you are employed gladly participate with you, is not to be lightly set aside, nor to be departed from except for imperative reasons."

In these men is represented an important part of our nation's life which has no need to change its methods of conducting its business to keep within the four corners of the law."

Yet Heavy Industry.
Commissioner Clark then went on to illustrate in a graphic way how vast is the railroad industry in the United States.

"The total mileage of tracks," he said, "of the railroads of the United States is three hundred and twenty-eight thousand. If the capitalization of those roads were laid down in silver dollars side by side, so that those dollars touched each other, the dollars would extend over every mile of those tracks and there would be enough left over to more than encircle the globe."

"If the annual revenue of those roads were laid down in silver dollars in the same way, the dollars would extend more than twice around the world. If all those revenues were paid in actual cash, the amount of money so paid to the railroads for transportation would equal the total sum of money in circulation in this country."

Railroad Pay.
"If the money paid to these railroads to their employees every year, were laid down the same way in silver dollars, it would extend 22,000 miles, or almost once around the earth."

"If the employees of all these roads were to march in a parade at the rate of three miles an hour day and night the single file would be 850 miles long and it would require nearly 12 days for the procession to pass a given point."

"If the number of passengers carried one mile annually by these roads were formed in a parade 10 abreast, that parade would require 64 years to pass a given point."

"If the freight cars of these roads were coupled together they would extend from Worcester to Portland, Ore., then to Los Angeles, then to Jacksonville, Fla., and from Jacksonville back to Worcester, and there would be enough left over to put in cross lines between Worcester and San Francisco and Jacksonville and Portland, Ore."

"If all those cars were hauled in one train moving at a uniform speed of ten miles an hour day and night, it would be 69 days after the locomotive passed, before the caboose would come in sight."

WOMAN REPORTS BURGLARY:

Lupe Salen, an Italian woman, who conducts a store on South Stanton street, near the corner of Third street, complained to the police that her place had been robbed.

Detective George Harold was put to work on the case and succeeded in catching Edmundo Sanchez, a Mexican boy, who broke down under a series of cross questions and told the detective, he says where the stolen money and property could be secured. About $40 of the $100 stolen was secured. A gold ring and brooch, stolen from the store, and some goods were turned over to the woman.

HAT FOUND IN JUAREZ.
A woman's hat was found in the Plaza at Juarez Saturday, and is held by the Mexican police. The bonnet was a new one, the sack bearing the name of an El Paso store.

TWO MEN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF GAMING.

W. H. Allen and John Davis were arrested Saturday afternoon by deputy constables Hinekey and Brown, and, after being arraigned before justice McClintock on a charge of gaming, were released upon furnishing bonds in the sum of $100 each.

For nearly a week the constable and his deputies had been watching the rooms over the Model bar, at the intersection of San Antonio and North Stanton streets, and after summoning several witnesses, secured sufficient information, they say, to warrant the arrest of the men. They will be arraigned before the justice this afternoon.
